Public Disclosure:
Alderson Broaddus University status changed
from “Accredited – Probation” to “Accredited – Notice”
Effective: June 27, 2019

The Higher Learning Commission has removed Alderson Broaddus University in Philippi, West Virginia, from Probation and placed it on Notice.

HLC took this action because it determined that the institution has improved areas of non-compliance that led to the Probation sanction in June 2017 but remains at risk of being out of compliance with HLC’s Criteria for Accreditation.

While on Notice, the institution remains accredited, and it has the opportunity to remedy the issues that led to the sanction. The period of Notice is not more than two years.

What Notice Means for Students
In most cases, other institutions of higher education will continue to accept the institution’s credits in transfer or for admission to a higher degree program. All colleges and universities define their own transfer and admission policies. Student should contact any institution they plan to attend in the future so they are knowledgeable about the admission and transfer policies for that institution.

Noted Criteria for Accreditation
HLC concluded the institution has demonstrated that it is in compliance with the HLC Criteria for Accreditation but nevertheless meets with concerns the following Core Components:

- Criterion Five, Core Component 5.A, “the institution’s resource base supports its current educational programs and its plans for maintaining and strengthening their quality in the future”
- Criterion Five, Core Component 5.C, “the institution engages in systematic and integrated planning”

Next Steps
The institution is required to provide evidence that it has addressed the issues that led to the Notice sanction by October 1, 2020 in preparation for HLC’s on-site evaluation no later than December 2020. In June 2021, the HLC Board of Trustees will determine whether the institution has demonstrated that it is in compliance with the Criteria for Accreditation and whether Notice can be removed.
