

Public Disclosure:
University of Arizona
Voluntary Resignation of Accreditation
Effective: August 1, 2023

University of Arizona in Tucson, Arizona, voluntarily resigned its accreditation with the Higher Learning Commission, effective August 1, 2023.

The institution's status as an HLC accredited institution expires on the effective date above. The institution has indicated that it plans to maintain its accreditation through another federally recognized accrediting agency beyond that date. Additional information about the institution's accreditation(s) following its resignation from HLC can be found on the U.S. Department of Education's Database of Accredited Postsecondary Institutions and Programs, which is available at: <https://ope.ed.gov/dapip/#/home>.

To provide transparency for all stakeholders, HLC publishes a Directory of Institutions on its website (hlcommission.org/directory). The directory includes information about a college or university's accreditation status and history with HLC.

About the Higher Learning Commission

The Higher Learning Commission accredits approximately 1,000 colleges and universities in the United States. HLC is a private, nonprofit accrediting agency. It is recognized by the U.S. Department of Education and the Council for Higher Education Accreditation. Questions? Contact info@hlcommission.org or call 312.263.0456.

Posting Date: July 21, 2023